

Infection prevention and control leadership: beyond the pandemic

Thursday 15th September 10-11am, UTS Broadway Campus and online

Kathy Dempsey and Jo Tallon are leaders in Infection Prevention and Control (IPC), who played key roles in steering the NSW health system through the pandemic. They are both actively dedicated to developing the leadership skills, qualities and capacities of IPC professionals as a rapidly growing and influential group of clinicians in safety and quality.

Kathy Dempsey is the inaugural NSW Chief ICP and HAI Advisor for NSW at the Clinical Excellence Commission, and NSW IPAC COVID-19 Response Clinical Lead.

Jo Tallon is the Director, Infection Prevention and Control, for North Sydney Local Health District.

Register here to hear from Kathy and Jo, about how the pandemic has highlighted the importance of IPC leadership in healthcare, and what they have done, and what else needs to be done, to sustain IPC leadership through pandemic times and beyond.

This will be the 8th of 10 seminars in our 2022 UTS series: The Future of the Health and Social Care Industries, brought to you by The Centre for Health Services Management.
